One Day Games.

Instant browser-playable companions for physical games.

Founded by CJ Connoy.

AAA game production and design leader across Call of Duty and PlayStation / Sony Interactive Entertainment.

WHAT IT IS NOW

Alpha complete.

A fun, faithful Trash Dice digital companion.

- Instant play. No app to download. No account to create.
- Browser-based. Works on mobile and desktop.
- Privately shared. Strong early reaction.

ODG's finishing pass.

The path to retail-grade ship.

- 2-player mode. Two phones, one code. Local play anywhere.
- Tablet optimization. First-class iPad and tablet experience.
- Brand and legal pass. Official Trash Dice art, copy, and IP review applied.
- Retail-ready QR route. Scan-to-play from box, Amazon, web, or event signage.
- Live QA and ops. Monitoring, browser checks, and rapid repair path.

An instant “90-second Demo Game” QR on the outside of the box.

“Play the instant demo.”

The shopper in the aisle picks up Trash Dice. Scans the QR. Plays a 90-second demo that ends with THANKS FOR PLAYING! It's a sales-support experience that helps people learn, try, share, and buy the physical game — it doesn't replace the physical product.

Industry grounding · Dized B2B positioning: “demo person at retail.” QR-initiated journeys can outperform display when tracked and optimized.

An instant “On the Go Game” QR inside the box.

“Take Trash Dice with you.”

The box game can be played just about anywhere. The On-the-Go game is for everywhere else.

1 or 2 nearby players. Backseat on a road trip. In line at the amusement park. Two phones, one code, head-to-head — anywhere the box isn't.

From watching kids play Trash Dice · Not a research paper. A creative-director's read on the product.
